From soap to cigarettes: Movie stars sold it all

BY DONALD-BRIAN JOHNSON

The year was 1929. Makeup maven Max Factor had just signed its first batch of Hollywood stars to endorsement contracts for his blossoming line of beauty products.

With the blessing (and active nudging) of their studios, the performers would soon appear in print ads promoting Max's cosmetics. Not so coincidentally, those ads would also promote the studios' latest movie releases.

Over the years, Max Factor's movieland roster came to encompass a significant slice of Hollywood history. There were silent screen sirens Clara Bow and Pola Negri; legendary beauties Loretta Young, Elizabeth Taylor, and Lana Turner; and drama divas Bette Davis and Joan Crawford. Lucille Ball, who signed her first Max Factor contract in 1935, even insisted on the services of the salon's "Director of Beauty" for her divorce court appearance vs. Desi Arnaz.

Of course, the stars would need to be compensated. So what sounds fair? Millions? Thousands? Hundreds?

Nope. The "Max Factor Girls," as they came to be known, each received annual compensation in the heady amount of — one dollar. And the ladies who contracted with Mr. Factor were happy to have it.

So why were the stars of Hollywood's Golden Age so acquiescent? Well, every evening on the silver screen, movies offered up plenty of faces for public consumption. Glamour photo magazine ads like Max Factor's made sure that new faces had a chance to register with fans, while at the same time making sure that familiar faces weren't forgotten.

Other star-themed ads also zeroed in on beauty products. The stars shone brightly for an entire cosmetics counter's worth of glamour goodies. Among the favorites: Woodbury Cold Cream & Powder (Dorothy Lamour, Veronica Lake, Gloria De Haven); Lux Soap (Judy Garland, June Allyson, Marlene Dietrich, Loretta Young); Lustre Crème (Ava Gardner), and Drene (Virginia Mayo). During the nylon-deprived World War II years, Barbara Stanwyck, on behalf of Armand Leg Make-Up, opined "it's patriotic to save your hosiery." (Barbara, noted the ad, was "now appearing in Lady of Burlesque," where those made-up legs were presumably displayed in all their glory.)

"Stars," as the term implies, existed in another realm. Keeping them secure on their pedestals—yet down-to-earth enough to believably hawk everyday products—had advertisers walking a continual tightrope. Here's a soapy (yet subtle) sampling, courtesy of Lux:

Loretta Young: "We women know how important day-to-day care is in order to look and keep looking our prettiest. It's 1 part beauty, and 9 parts beauty care. Lux really makes skin lovelier."

Marlene Dietrich: "Romance and lovely skin just seem to go together. It's romance—love—that any woman really wants. No wonder 9 out of 10 screen stars use Lux."

June Allyson: "I'm a Lux girl. . .and Lux girls are lovelier."

Once advertisers saw how favorably consumers responded to movie stars hustling beauty products, the race was on,

NEWS

Changes aren't slowing Ohio's Swappers Day

By William Flood

JOHNSTOWN, Ohio — It's a Labor Day tradition that's big enough to make Yelp's Top 10 list of antique venues in north-central Ohio. Outdoor News calls it "a chance to reconnect with the outdoors," recognizing the show's sportsmen's heritage. The big festival with humble roots is Johnstown, Ohio's Swappers Day and it had a banner year despite the winds of change blowing.

Swappers Day has been running since 1944 making it one of the oldest — and now largest — flea markets in Ohio. It originated at the Johnstown Community Sportsmen's Club (JCSC), coming as an offshoot of a weekend of hunting dog water trials held at the facility. Those dog races grew in popularity, and an unofficial swap meet was born as participants started bringing hunting, fishing, and related items to sell or trade. Today, tens of thousands of visitors descend on the JCSC grounds to shop or do some swapping of their own.

What began as a one-day affair now runs the entire Labor Day weekend or longer when you add in area yard sales. The formal event is still held on the JCSC grounds, running Saturday through Monday. Coinciding are hundreds of town yard sales that start as early as Thursday.

The main event at the JCSC brings as many as 750 vendors who set up across five acres, offering everything from hunting and fishing gear to antiques and even small animals. These days, as many as 35,000-55,000 guests arrive, which can mean quite a packed facility.

Part of the event's draw is that it remains rooted in its field sports and rural heritage. There are events like archery and BB gun tournaments and plenty of sellers with guns and other hunting equipment for sale. Given the modern era, some find the gun sales disconcerting. However, show officials emphasize that state laws for the sale of guns and ammunition are strictly enforced. Others voice concern over pet and animal sales, although such sales are common in rural communities.

Club officials are quick to share that Swappers Day is family-friendly. In an interview in the Columbus Dispatch, Sportsman Club trustee Mark Gavin asserted, "There's No alcohol, no pornography...this is a family event." The JCSC's community mindset carries over into their using pro-

How should this story end? The reader gets to decide

By Ryan Padgett

Lawyer Edward Packard was weaving together a made-up bedtime story for his daughters about a lone man abandoned on a desert island. As Packard progressed with the story, he eventually ran out of ideas for how the tale would end. He turned to his daughters and asked them what they thought would come next in the story. Each daughter conceived a different narrative forward and the figurative light bulb illuminated above Packard's head: Each daughter identified with the main character yet created a different path forward.

Packard took this idea of creating divergent pathways that a reader could choose to explore and developed a manuscript titled Sugarcane Island. In 1976, Packard approached R.A. Montgomery with his manuscript and idea. Montgomery, a small publisher overseeing Vermont Crossroads Press and an inventor in the design of role-playing games in the early 1970s, saw the potential of this "RPG-style" book and agreed to publish the manuscript. According to Montgomery, "Experiential learning is the most powerful way for kids, or for anyone, to learn something." Initially titled The Adventures of You, Montgomery brought the book series to Bantam Books, who was looking to start a children's book division.

In 1978, Montgomery signed a six-book deal with Bantam Books and invited Packard and writer Doug Terman to author books for the new series, which Bantam Books cleverly renamed Choose Your Own Adventure. The first book in the series, The Cave of Time, was released in 1979 and follows the protagonist quite literally choosing between two passageways on a hike through Snake Canyon. Upon the conclusion of a chapter, the reader is then prompted with a decision with each choice leading to a different page and a different ceeds from the event to help support local nonprofits. Past beneficiaries have included local veterans' organizations, food pantries, and national outdoor groups like the National Wild Turkey Federation.

While the Sportsmen's Club is the nucleus, many head all over Johnstown for the town-wide yard and garage sales. Area residents benefit from the show's draw by setting up sales in their yards, barns, and even at the town square. The village of Johnstown encourages things by foregoing yard sale permits for Labor Day and the days before.

However, things are changing. In September 2022, Intel broke ground on a microchip factory near Johnstown that will be one of the largest manufacturing facilities in the country and is expected to bring 3,000 workers to the rural community. State officials laud the economic benefits but area residents have more mixed feelings. Many lament the looming loss of the agricultural way of life that has defined the area for nearly two centuries.

There are already waves. The once sleepy farm town is now home to two coffee shops, several restaurants, and a handful of shops, including Antiques on Main and the multi-dealer Flea Market 24/7. Real estate prices have skyrocketed, roads are being widened, and cornfields are giving way to new housing developments. Still, the occasional John Deere can be spotted tooling down the road.

For the last couple of years, Swappers Day shoppers and vendors have felt the growing pains. The main roadway, Route 62, used to be a peaceful ride, but now speeds and congestion can make it dangerous to stop for a sale. While the uptick in shoppers is positive, sellers say it can get overwhelming. One resident said, "I've been setting up on Thursdays for years. By 8 this morning, there were so many cars you couldn't get down the street!" His nearly 100 Longaberger baskets were snatched up in the fray. Another echoed much the same, "I was putting stuff out at 6 a.m. and had all kinds of people stopping."

Only time will tell what effects Intel's coming will ultimately have on the area. Meanwhile, traditions like Swappers Day will continue. Crowds and traffic withstanding, Swappers Day is still a fantastic activity for Labor Day weekend.

If you would like to attend next year, the official JCSC event is held at 7357 Sportsman Club Road in Johnstown. Admission is $6 per day, with children 10 and under free. Parking is free and handicapped parking is available.

Yard sales, of course, are free. Facebook groups for Johnstown and Swappers Day have Google Maps identifying sale locations and hours.

The popularity of the Choose Your

The Choose Your Own Adventure series holds an indelible mark on those raised in the 1980s. Their imprint was a catalyst for many young readers, introducing the concepts of role playing and interactive games. How mainstream were Choose Your Own Adventure books? Their histories have been covered in Smithsonian Magazine, The New Yorker, and a myriad of online book forums. The Choose Your Own Adventure has had a renaissance in pop culture, with new books and box sets recently released in major retailers, including a tie-in with the hit streaming series Stranger Things. A rebirth in a book genre is always welcome, especially if it pulls in young readers and adults alike to discover new adventures and exploration in storytelling.

Massive English clock will have bidders asking for the time at Fontaine’s

PITTSFIELD, MASS. — Fontaine’s will present a two-part Fine and Decorative Arts auction September 23-24.

Already attracting significant on-line interest is a massive and lavishly carved English oak tall case clock from the 19th century ($60/80,000), measuring 11 feet 10 inches tall by 52 inches wide. The carving on this fine clock is extensive with a pair of 3-foot-tall putti at the base flanking a central medallion of Sir William Whittington and a date of 1793. The case’s main door boasts a 4-foot-tall carving of a young Whittington flanked by Father Time and Lady Justice. Elsewhere there are musical instruments, standing winged angels and a carved three-dimensional bust of Whittington. The movement and dial are both signed “Joshua Hampson Fecit 1743.”

A notable highlight from longtime antiques collector Harold Wright’s estate is a Birger Sandzén (American/Swedish, 1871-1954) painting, “Between Showers” estimated at $50/75,000. The artist gifted this painting to a school in Kansas, which many years later sold it at auction, when Wright acquired it. Also coming out of his estate are a number of fine table lamps, including a Tiffany Studios “Daffodil” lamp ($40/60,000), circa 1910, measuring 27 inches tall with a 20-inch-diameter shade; a Duffner & Kimberly Art Nouveau style lamp ($8/12,000), circa 1905, and a Handel “Birds of Paradise” lamp ($5/7,500), circa 1915, standing 23 ¾ inches tall with an 18-inch diameter shade.

Fontaine’s always has fine examples of antique lighting, especially by Tiffany Studios, and this sale is no exception, featuring a Tiffany Studios “Curtain Border” floor lamp ($50/75,000) hailing from a Baltimore, Md., collection. This circa 1910 lamp, standing 79 inches tall, has a 24½-inch diameter shade impressed “Tiffany Studios, New York, 1515” while the base is impressed “Tiffany Studios, New York, 376.” Another Tiffany Studios standout is a circa 1905 “Banded Dogwood” table lamp ($40/60,000) having a tripod base and stands 32 1/2 inches tall with a 20 ½-inch diameter shade. There are over 75 items in this auction carrying the Tiffany name, including 40 Tiffany Studios lamps.

Jewelry, fine silver and watch offerings here have been attracting quite a robust following in recent auctions and highlighting the jewelry category is an 18K white gold, pink sapphire and diamond jewelry suite ($15/25,000) having nearly 30 carats of princess cut and faceted sapphires and over 15 carats of round brilliant diamonds. Fine silver includes 85 items and will feature a Georg Jensen 122-piece “Acorn” flatware set ($8/12,000).

Below: An expected auction standout is this Birger Sandzén (American/Swedish, 1871-1954) painting, “Between Showers,” ($50/75,000, which the artist gifted to a Kansas school district. When the schools sold the painting at auction many years later, Harold F. Wright purchased it.

Rounding out the first day are a Gustav Stickley curly maple vanity ($15/25,000), designed by Harvey Ellis and produced circa 1912, boasting inlays of pewter, fruitwood and ebony, signed with the firm’s joiner’s compass decal, 54 by 36 by 18 inches; a Jean Baptiste Clesinger (French, 1814-1883) bronze sculpture of two bulls fighting ($12/15,000) and a rare Black Forest carved wood figural umbrella stand ($10/15,000) in the form of two cats on branch-form supports

A parade of about 40 fine Tiffany Studios lamps across the block will be led by this “Daffodil” lamp ($40/60,000), circa 1910, measuring 27 inches tall with a 20-inch-diameter shade; above two dogs, each with glass eyes, standing 39 by 29 by 19 inches.

Right: This rare Black Forest carved figural dog and cat umbrella stand ($10/15,000) dates to the 19th Century.

Sculpture offerings continue in the second session with a Mathurin Moreau (French, 1822-1912) bronze sculpture of a seated woman holding a book ($1,2/1,500), measuring 21½ inches tall. This session has a little bit of everything for most collectors’ interest, including gold jewelry, Weller pottery, porcelain, Tiffany Studios desk sets and more.

Planning a trip? Event Finder can help you locate auctions and shows. All events listed under the Event Finder heading are advertised in this issue of AntiqueWeek. Events are listed by state, then by town with a brief description of the event, the opening date and finally the page number where the ad can be located.

Event Finder is only for advertised events. Auctioneers and show managers who want to be listed in our free calendar listings may continue to do so. Those free listings will be contained in the Auction or Show calendar sections.

While we have taken great care in compiling the information shown here, we strongly urge you to call the auctioneer or show manager listed for the event in case of cancellations or postponements. We also encourage auctioneers and show managers to contact us with any changes to their schedule. AntiqueWeek is not responsible for errors or omissions.

Calendars can also be searched online at www.antiqueweek.com

LAWRENCEBURG ANTIQUES

"Fall Kick Off" Antique Auction

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 2023, 10:00 AM

We are excited to announce that we will be selling items from the Estate of Bonnie and the late Jim Norman of Hartselle, Alabama along with other high quality select items. Jim & Bonnie had 45 years in the antique business running an antique auction in the Hartselle area. In addition to the auctions, they were owners of an antique mall and an antique retail store for 10+ years. Over the years they have collected some unique and unusual pieces.

Bidders were Ford Tough at dealership auction

BY NANCY KELLY

BELLAIRE, Mich. —Nostalgia and collectability won out over practicality at this auction for the inventory of an 83 year old Ford farm equipment dealership. Wiliam Sell and Son started the business in 1940, and the son Bob Sell was still the owner for this sale. Within the 891 lots of this online auction conducted by Brad Neuhart Auctioneers there were numerous tools and useable parts, but the vintage signs, toys, and other memorabilia took center stage. The prices here do not include the buyer's premium.

Several signs were used over the years, and many survived in very good condition. The highest earning prize was a blue and white square sign that was mounted on a 10-foot-tall post. The 3-foot square sign read Ford Tractor Equipment and looked ready to be put back into service today. It earned a final bid of $4,100.

The second highest selling sign was a huge Ford Tractor Equipment dealership sign that consisted of two panels, each measuring 5 by 10 feet. Still mounted on the dealership wall, this highly desirable relic was taken with a final bid of $2,750.

The next sign represented the historic partnership between Ford and

A small but mighty plastic sign was also very much in demand. Due to its fragile make up, most signs like this one have been broken over the years, making it hard to find. This 28 inch long by

A couple of other dealership-related items also proved to be very popular.

A fascinating wall-mount, multi-page catalog measuring 24 by 36 inches included pages dedicated to tractors, numerous implements, and two pages tout exclusive Proof things as hours in all gears, and nature was introduced in the 1950s. Still in very good condition, the catalog was eagerly purchased for $1,475. Another highlight of the dealership, a 1950s meeting award toy, a Commander 1/12 scale 1 inch diameter medallion clipped to the catalog that read "Great since hydraulics, Shipping is available for smaller items. Marathon Auction Sales does not Ship Furniture (Pickup only) unless buyer makes arrangements to have their mover pick it up. Email shipping requests for doubtful items (Large Lamps & Clocks w/ Glass, Artwork, Excessive Amounts of Glassware etc.) Local Pickup of items following the close of any sale is scheduled for the two days following the auction from 12 Noon to 5 PM. Usually that will be on Monday & Tuesdays. There is a slight 10 dollars or less, fee charged for packaging & handling for each package. Items can be combined to save you money. I ship "IN HOUSE" to save customers money. So, please be patient as this takes time. Other arrangements can be made.

Please report late delivery

AntiqueWeek strives to provide customers with the best delivery possible. Occasionally, areas of the country do not receive timely delivery of the paper. The goal of AntiqueWeek's late delivery staff is to work with the USPS to get your paper to you – on time, every time. If your paper is not delivered on or before the issue date, please let us know.

These areas experienced multiple reports of late deliveries during the week of 8/8/23: Virginia.

These states reported single reports of late delivery for the same week: Kentucky, Missouri, Texas, Iowa.

1-800-ASK-USPS or 800-275-8777 & 800-877-8339

Our staff members will continue to address the late delivery reports we receive. We are constantly striving to rectify the late delivery problem. Please call our customer care center at (800) 876-5133 or email subscriptions@antiqueweek.com to report late delivery. Continue to report delivery issues if problems are not fixed after the first call so staff members can continue to report these difficulties to the USPS.

In order to ensure everyone can see the paper on time, AntiqueWeek uploads each issue every Saturday morning to its website. The online issue is free to subscribers and totally keyword searchable. Visit www.antiqueweek.com.

Movie Stars

as other sponsors competed for Hollywood placement. Huffing and puffing their way to the top of the heap: those relics of another time, cigarette ads.

While beauty ads were often black-and-white, cigarette advertising took a flashier approach: full-color back-cover promos in such general circulation publications as Look and Photoplay. The primary intent: persuading buyers just how inoffensive a particular brand could be. Most of the big names were lighting up for Chesterfield. Among them: Deborah Kerr, Richard Widmark, and, in a bizarre World War II Christmas ad, an army-helmeted Santa Claus. All the cast members of 1948's The Paradine Case, from ingénue Valli, to curmudgeoness Ethel Barrymore, were posed with Chesterfields in hand. Bing Crosby, pulling a new carton out of his desk drawer, noted, "There's no friend like an old friend—and that how I feel about Chesterfields."

The floodgates were now open wide. Jolene Shoes joined forces with bandleader/caricaturist Xavier Cugat for ads featuring his drawings, and a revolving door of fetching film stars. Art Linkletter pitched vegetables for Green Giant, Abbott and Costello touted Tums, and Ozzie & Harriet shooed away germs with Listerine. Puppeteer Señor Wences drank in the joys of Seagram's 7, while bandleader Lawrence Welk raised his baton in salute of the 1957 Dodge.

Some stars appeared in ads promoting their program sponsors. Bob "Pepsodent" Hope eventually moved on from toothpaste, ballyhooing everything from RCA Color TVs to Jolly Time Popcorn. Alfred Hitchcock balefully boosted Bufferin. Hearty vocalist Kate Smith sang the praises of baking with Swan's Down Cake Flour.

There were oddities, as well. The Dionne Quintuplets appeared on behalf of Karo Syrup, complete with a testimonial from their physician, Dr. Dafoe: "Karo is the only syrup served to the Quints." Silent movie queen Gloria Swanson had perhaps the most dismal movie ad career, appearing in a Doublemint Gum promotion, wearing a "Doublemint Dress" designed by famed couturiere, Valentina (yes, the dress color matched the gum wrapper). Later, Gloria endured further—although undoubtedly well-paid—humiliation, appearing in a Jergens Lotion ad under the headline "Will you look as lovely as Gloria Swanson on her 52nd birthday?" (If you used Jergens, the answer to lovely looks at the ripe old age of 52 was evidently a resounding "yes.")

With the advent of television in the late 1940s, star presence in magazine ads began to lose its luster. By the mid-1950s, most of the stars "selling it" were doing so on TV, often on their own programs, and for much more than the symbolic Max Factor dollar. Fortunately, vintage star ads are still readily available to today's collectors. They appeared in mass-market publications, and stacks of those ad-laden magazines, carefully saved by the original subscribers, can often be found at estate and garage sales. It's an affordable hobby: complete magazine prices run in the $5-15 range, topping out at $25. If you're interested only in a single star, and lack the time (or patience) to peruse piles of old magazines, buying a ready-to-go ad is a logical, if more costly, option. Enterprising dealers in paper goods buy up old magazines and dissect them, selling ads featuring specific performers at $5-10. The ads can then be individually framed, or used to create a montage. Many collectors, however, prefer to acquire complete, undamaged magazines, and keep them in their intact condition.

Paging through a magazine of the past is like opening a compact time capsule of mid-20th century popular culture—so don't rush. Let's riffle through an issue of Woman's Home Companion from 1936. On our way to the "star ads," we'll find ourselves happily waylaid by a wealth of recipes, decorating tips, short stories, and news of the day. And then, that first ad appears. It's for Chase & Sanborn Coffee, sponsors of the hit radio program, Major Bowes' Original Amateur Hour. There's the Major himself, and all his newly-discovered stars, including a vocal quartet, the "Hoboken Four." Wait a minute. . .who's that in the spotlight? Why, it's the group's lead crooner: skinny, smiling, and soon-to-be-famous Frank Sinatra!

In the words of Woodbury Powder, that's "a bit of stardust magic. . . a flawless, film-star finish."

Our September estate auction features several Ansel Adams silver gelatin prints, owned by Dennis Curtin, who worked for book publisher Little and Brown of Boston, producing several projects with Adams. Curtin's photographs in this auction were gifts given to him by Ansel Adams. Also on sale is a spectacular circa 1930s diamond, emerald, and onyx platinum bracelet, a Qi Baishi book of drawings, and an extensive selection of European furniture from a Southern Connecticut collection. There are also several pieces of 19th-century English Regency furniture from a Boston, Massachusetts, collection, over 100 pieces of Chinese porcelain, and a group of ethnic artifacts from a world traveler.

Previews: September 11th - 15th, 9:00 a.m - 5:00 p.m. The preview day of the sale starts at 10:00 a.m. and is open during the live auction.
