Collectors give thanks for the perfectly inspired table

BY BARBARA MILLER BEEM

They had survived multiple hardships, from food insecurity and political discord to high mortality rates and an epidemic. Indeed, it was time for a group of English colonists living along the northeast coast of America to give thanks. In 1621, the Pilgrims, along with their neighbors, indigenous people of the Wampanoag Nation, gathered multiple days for a harvest feast. Details of the celebration are sketchy, but thanks to a letter written by Edward Winslow, an eyewitness to the proceedings, it's clear that deer meat was on the menu.

Whether or not this was just the beginning of an annual Colonial tradition remains unknown. For that matter, there are those who question the validity of accepting this celebration as the first Thanksgiving in America. Regardless, come November 27, many Americans will once again be celebrating Thanksgiving Day.

To be sure, the marking of this tradition-laden holiday has evolved over the years. Not that long ago, it was the day when Santa came to town and set up residency in downtown department stores. These days, parades are carefully choreographed televised extravaganzas. Similarly, football matches between local high school rivals have ballooned into the national airing of wall-to-wall football games. As for being the time to begin Christmas shopping, that has evolved into monthlong "early Black Friday" sales.

But in spite of these distractions, some things remain the same. Nothing can get in the way of Thanksgiving dinner, where friends and family meet for a special meal that features traditional favorites. To be sure, there will be plenty of leftovers for sandwiches the next day. And as for the dining room table, it's still the focus of attention. Just ask Jimmie Bucci.

Bucci is a dedicated collector with an eye for the unique and the unusual. He is also the president of the Vintage Tablecloth Lovers Club, an active online group for likeminded fanciers. A Massachusetts resident, he understands what it takes to host a memorable holiday meal.

"Definitely, you have to set a good table," he began, even if the guest list is short and the menu is simple. Whether the meal is served family style, with dishes passed around the table, or buffet style, where guests help themselves from a serving sideboard, the perfect tablecloth, along with coordinating accessories, can make all the difference.

For those who, like Bucci, are serious about tablecloths, there are a number of factors to be considered. Strictly speaking, when it comes to vintage Thanksgiving tablecloths, there is not an overwhelming number from which to choose. Why this is the case is a question

Rare treasures sparked heavy bidding at Preston Evans auction

BY WILLIAM FLOOD

MACON, Ga. — On October 10–11, Preston Opportunities Auction hosted what it playfully called a “monster of an auction,” offering over 1,100 lots from the private collection of legendary Georgia auctioneer Preston Evans. Familiar to some from his appearance on American Pickers, Evans’ collection was like an eclectic museum. The sale featured exceptional items like a mahogany Aristocrat speedboat, a 1951 Jaguar MK V, exquisite clocks, automations, jukeboxes, coin-op machines, entertainment memorabilia, and more. Interested buyers had multiple options: Friday’s session was in-house only, while Saturday welcomed both in-person and online bidders via LiveAuctioneers.

Bidding was spirited, with a good portion of the lots selling for four- and five-figure sums. Saturday’s top offer of $15,000 went for a working 1941 Wurlitzer 850A “tulip” jukebox. The large-size floor model had an arched top with beautiful chromed filigree mounts astride colorful tulips with bubble tubes as their stems.

The Wurlitzer was just one of two dozen jukeboxes available. Two lots later, a 1920s art deco Mills Troubadour non-select unit made it to $8,500. The older restoration had an immaculate cabinet bearing a 1921 Mills Phonograph coin box. It was quickly followed by another Wurlitzer 850 - a “peacock” variety that brought $7,100. The all-original unit was in fantastic cosmetic shape, with working lights and bubbler.

Saturday’s session saw 36 more lots hit four-figure sums. Among them was a signed/numbered Tiffany Studios “lily” table lamp that rose to $6,500. The stunning lamp featured 18 golden iridescent glass lily shades suspended over a pati-nated bronze lilypad base. Close behind, at $6,000, was an extravagant grand parade saddle with tooled steel stirrups and matching breast collar and bridle.

Arcade, coin-operated, and similar machines were plentiful and often pulled impressive bids. A rare Jazz Age AirDry automatic hand-drying machine, made by Groton Electrical Devices of Groton, N.Y., sold for $4,200. It featured a foot pedal and a Universal motor patented in 1917. A well-preserved Regina floor-model music box realized $3,200; it retained its crank, double cone, and all its original teeth. A circa-1930 International Mutoscope digger crane game, with built-in gumball vendor and original keys, landed $2,200. Later, a fully operational, Mills 25-cent Twenty-One 7-7-7 slot machine - one of about a dozen slots available - went for $1,575.

Interest extended into vintage electronics, with a dozen heirloom radios, two of which pushed past the $1,000 mark. A good-condition Spartan Model 557 mirrored radio in sled blue hit an impressive

The Mayflower sails on through numerous collections

BY LARRY LEMASTERS

In the autumn of 1620, a group of English Puritans, believing that the Church of England had strayed too far from Christ’s teachings, set out to establish a colony in the New World where they could practice their religion free from persecution. 102 Puritans, also known as Pilgrims, and 30 crew were on board the Mayflower when she sailed from Plymouth Harbor in southwest England.

The voyage to the American colonies took two months, and the puritans on board suffered a great deal during the voyage. This voyage was a defining moment in what became America’s history, and the Mayflower sails flying on her three masts has become an iconic symbol of America and her enduring fight for religious freedom.

The Mayflower was a typical British sailing ship known as a carrack that had three masts, three decks (upper, gun, and cargo) and measured roughly 100 feet long and 25 feet wide. If you are good with numbers, 100 feet by 25 unseaworthy because it took on water and might have floundered or sunk, so all the passengers and crew were packed on board the Mayflower, along with food, tools, weapons, and live animals to start a colony once the Mayflower docked in the New World. The Mayflower sailed for 66 days before

$3,600, while a Halson Catalin Bakelite variety - known as “The Dwarf” - followed at $2,550.

Automotive nostalgia added another layer of appeal as the sale shifted into antique and classic vehicles. A garage-kept Ford Model T touring car, rust-free and in drivable condition, cruised to $6,500. Just behind it, a similarly preserved Model A 2-door sedan rolled in at $6,250. Further down the lineup, a classic Whizzer motorized bicycle — untested but cleanly presented — pedaled away for $1,300.

The event also featured some outstanding entertainment memorabilia, with several pieces climbing into the four-figure range. One piece was the Gong of Panna Lall, used onstage in 1906 by magician Karl Germain - also known as “Germain the Wizard” (1878–1959) - which rang up

$3,600. A framed and matted Jack Hoxie three-ring circus poster, measuring 31 by 45 inches and showing only light wear, earned $2,600. Meanwhile, a framed 26 by 28-inch poster - possibly a reproduction of the original Houdini lithograph titled America’s Sensation, Harry Handcuff Houdini, the Jail Breaker—landed just under the four-figure mark at $900.

Though activity eventually settled into a more modest range, there were plenty of unique catches. A striking circa-1920s Ward’s Orange Crush porcelain figural soda fountain syrup dispenser, noted for its excellent condition, rang up $800. Then, a solid 1912 Theodore Roosevelt for Presilanding on present day Cape Cod near Provincetown. While crossing the Atlantic Ocean, a baby named Oceanus Hopkins was born on the Mayflower to a woman named Elizabeth Hopkins.

On November 11, 1620, 41 Pilgrims signed the Mayflower Compact, which was the first governing document ever drawn up and signed on land that would become the United States of America, and Plymouth (Plymouth Rock) was the first permanent settlement of New England.

There was no shelter available on land, so the Pilgrims spent their first winter in America on board the Mayflower, and approximately half of the 102 Mayflower Pilgrims died during this first winter.

Of the Pilgrims who lived, there were 26 families who left descendants. Today, it is estimated that over 35 million people worldwide can trace their ancestry back to these early pioneering Puritans, and as many as 10 million descendants of these Pilgrims still live in the United States. Some of the more famous Mayflower descendants of John Alden and Priscilla Mullins include Marilyn Monroe, Clint Eastwood, and Bing Crosby. Today, The Mayflower Society traces the descendants of the Mayflower pilgrims through its Silver Books Project.

memorabilia is model ships. There are dozens if not hundreds of different models of the Mayflower available to collectors. Some of these model ships, like Revell's plastic model from the 1980s, were created for children to assemble, and some of them, such as the "Little People" Mayflower by Fisher Price, were made for youngsters to play with.

Other Mayflower collectibles include coins, stamps, doorstops, snow globes, ships in bottles, and postcards.

Thanksgiving

of the year, fewer were manufactured. Whatever the case, diligent collectors can still be rewarded. As an example, Bucci said that “Turkey Time,” a popular rayon cotton tablecloth made by California Hand Prints (CHP), can be procured for less than $50.

Even if you have the perfect vintage tablecloth, there can be issues, Bucci said. Older tablecloths are often not long enough to fully cover a holiday dining room table, especially when extension leaves have been added. He suggested that this can be easily remedied by layering the vintage cloth over a larger modern cloth, one that is either solid-colored or with a subtle print. Similarly, when setting a smaller table, themed placemats over a solid-color cloth might be a good alternative.

Sometimes, less is more, and this can especially be the case when it comes to centerpieces. As much as Bucci loves to decorate, on the subject of table centerpieces, he strikes a practical note, advising hosts not to overdo it. He suggested removing a centerpiece from the table when the meal commences, especially when serving family style.

But that doesn’t mean that the table needs to be devoid of decoration. One option might be to decorate each individual place with “little things.” Thanksgiving napkins add a festive air when prominently displayed atop dinner plates. Or, Bucci suggested, look for napkin rings, “a good touch.” Thanksgiving-themed Gurley candles are ideal for decorating each place setting. Or set out miniature vintage paper honeycomb decorations to inject a bit of fun to the table, all the while not taking up too much space. Bucci noted that small versions of these whimsical decorations can often be found for less than a dollar a piece; larger versions might be set around the room to create an overall festive atmosphere. However, he cautioned shoppers that many of the same companies that originally sold these pieces years ago are still producing them today. Don’t assume them to be vintage.

Don’t forget the dinnerware, he continued. Ironically, one of Bucci’s favorite Thanksgiving-inspired patterns is by an English company; he considers Johnson Brothers’ “His Majesty” to be a “really cool pattern.” Regardless of what dishes are chosen for accommodating a large dinner party, Bucci recommended purchasing at least 16 place settings, if possible. On the other hand, attractive tables for larger parties can be set with carefully chosen mix-and-match dinnerware.

Meanwhile, remember the little touches. Don’t overlook Thanksgiving-inspired pieces (including cheese spreaders with Thanksgiving figurals on the handles), as well as salt-and-pepper shakers, often made in the likeness of turkeys.

Finally, there’s an opportunity for drama when it comes to presenting the “guest of honor,” the turkey. Turkey platters are so varied (and plentiful) that many fans of Thanksgiving specialize in collecting them. “There are dozens of designs,” Bucci said. In addition to ceramic and enamelware platters, he noted that one of the most unusual examples in his collection is made of bright orange plastic. “It was so bizarre that I had to have it.” And even though one platter is sufficient for one holiday meal, others can be displayed throughout the home during the season.

This might be the time to begin the search for next year, Bucci concluded. Look for gravy boats with ladles, turkey candleholders, and sugar and creamer sets (“if you’re lucky”). Don’t overlook Thanksgiving-inspired what-nots, although serious collectors need to be mindful of reproductions.

Finally, few of us can replicate the lavish meal and beautiful surroundings suggested by a Norman Rockwell
